Books of Kells

The Book of Kells

folio 34r, Chi Rho page

The Chi Rho page is the most celebrated image in the Book of Kells. The words Christi autem generatio open the narrative of Matthew's gospel with the name of Christ in its abbreviated Greek form (Chi Rho) occupying the whole height of the page. The Chi forms a cross shape. The page is filled with visual reminders of the eucharistic sacrifice and resurrection of Christ.

2nd Day: Butlers Chocolate Factory & Guinness

On this day, the focus was on the consumer good production. We were able to gain insights into the different production steps.

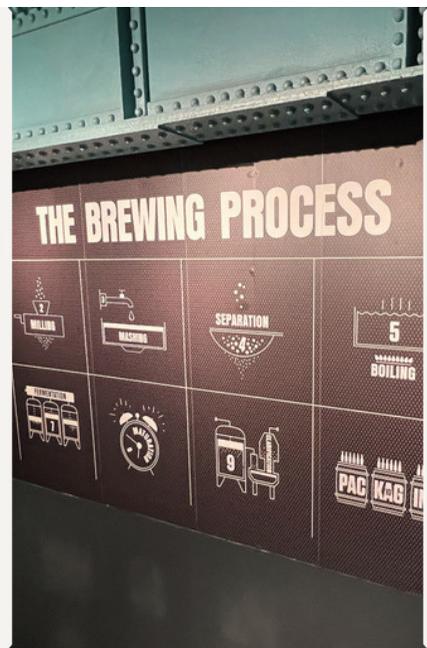

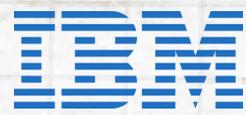

ESTD 1759

GUINNESS®

3rd Day:

On the third day, we visited IBM and got a tour of the office premises.

We also received various presentations on relevant topics and the different professions at IBM.

Afterwards there was still some time for further exploration...

Howth

- Peninsula near Dublin
- Former fishing village
- Rocky coast
- Delicious fish restaurants

4th Day: Austrian Embassy & Google

On this day, we visited the Austrian Embassy in Dublin in the morning and Google's European headquarter in the afternoon. At both activities we were able to ask many questions and expand our personal network.

TESCO

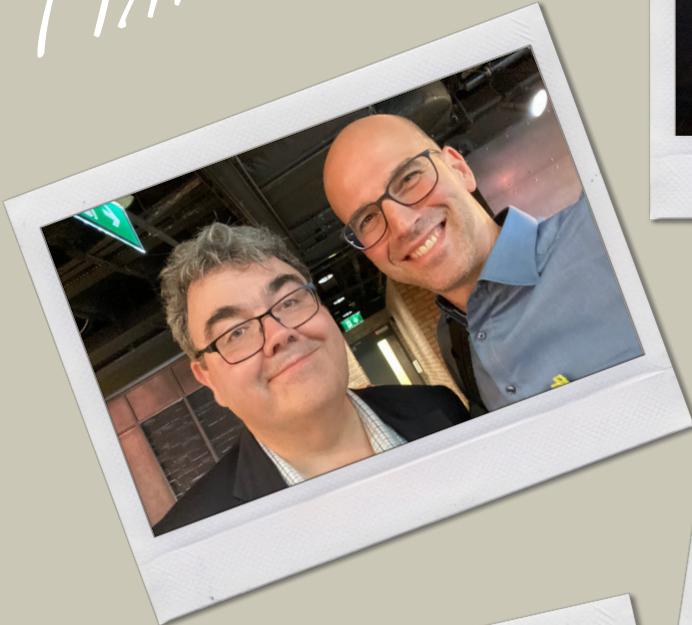

Last day: Tesco

The giant British supermarket focuses on serving their customers, communities and the planet a little better every day. Their business is driven by efficiency, quality standards and assurance.

Time to

An amazing Study Trip

We learned a lot about Irish culture, visited global players of different industries and experienced the feeling of being a diverse and funny study group one last time.
